Creating amendments to the Labour law

The members of the working group, who are in charge of developing the generic model of higher dual education, held a meeting in the premises of the Faculty of Economics on Wednesday, 8th December 2021. at 12:00 p.m. The subject of the meeting was a discussion on the draft proposal for the development of the generic model of higher dual education, as well as on the comments received from representatives of partner institutions. On that occasion, the effort that has been made so far in order to create a generic model was emphasized, and useful guidelines were given for its further improvement. With this regard, the conclusion is that in the next period special attention should be paid to the regulation of the legal framework for the implementation of higher dual education. Also, several recommendations were given with the aim to further clarify several potential doubts within the draft proposal of the model, in order to prepare the final version of the document. The working group concluded that amendments to the Labour Law are not necessary for the implementation of dual education, because engagement of students in companies during their dual education does not have any impact on their working status in relation to Labour Law.

It is important to point out that, in order to create an appropriate legal framework for the development of dual education, a special working group was formed. Although it is concluded that amendments are not necessary for the piloting of dual education, changes in the legal framework are necessary prerequisite for further implementation of dual education (after the project finishes).
